INSTITUTIONAL PARTNERSHIP BROCHURE

Flexible English Education for Universities and Institutions

CEFR-aligned curriculum development | Self-paced learning | AI-assisted practice | Faculty-led delivery

An educational initiative of Vanguard Prairie Group LLC

02 THE OPPORTUNITY

A Flexible Approach to Institutional English Education

Many institutions need English instruction that is structured, accessible, and supported by technology. Building a full curriculum, workbook set, and practice environment in-house takes years of effort. Vanguard English Academy is being developed to offer a ready-made, CEFR-aligned foundation that institutions can adopt in the way that suits their teaching model.

TWO PLANNED DELIVERY MODELS

MODEL A

Self-Paced, AI-Assisted English Learning

Students study independently, progress at their own pace, and revisit lessons whenever needed. Suited to supplementary instruction, independent study, and flexible access outside classroom hours.

MODEL B

Faculty-Led English Instruction

Your own English teachers deliver or supervise the curriculum. The platform and materials support your instructors, who keep full control of their classes and teaching arrangements.

> ### Your faculty. Your students. A flexible English learning curriculum.
>
> Institutions do not need to replace their existing teachers. The two models can run side by side, or a faculty-supervised class can use independent practice assigned by its instructors.

POSSIBLE APPLICATIONS

- University English language departments
- Supplemental English instruction
- Vocational English preparation
- Foundation and bridge programmes
- Continuing education
- Faculty-supervised blended learning

Development status: Vanguard English Academy is under development. Features described in this brochure are planned unless stated otherwise. Faculty-led delivery is subject to final platform development and partnership arrangements.

03 THE CURRICULUM

A Structured Pathway from A1 to C2

The curriculum follows the six levels of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. Each level builds on the one before it across reading, writing, listening, speaking, vocabulary, grammar, and practical communication.

A1	A2	B1	B2	C1	C2
Beginner	Elementary	Intermediate	Upper Int.	Advanced	Proficient

Current development priority: the foundational CEFR curriculum, beginning with A1.

THREE PRINCIPAL BOOK COLLECTIONS

CEFR A1–A2

Book A: Foundations of English

Everyday communication, basic vocabulary, grammar foundations, simple conversations, listening, reading, and practical writing.

CEFR B1–B2

Book B: Developing English Proficiency

Independent communication, more complex grammar, extended reading, discussion, workplace communication, and structured writing.

CEFR C1–C2

Book C: Advanced English Proficiency

Complex texts, academic and professional language, nuanced expression, extended writing, and higher-level listening and speaking.

SKILLS DEVELOPED

Reading and comprehension

Writing and structured feedback

Listening comprehension

Speaking and pronunciation

Vocabulary and grammar

SUPPORTING MATERIALS

Digital and printable workbooks are planned for each collection. They are designed to support both independent students and faculty-led classrooms.

The curriculum is developed with CEFR alignment in mind. It has not been externally accredited or validated by any examining body.

04 DIGITAL LEARNING AND ASSESSMENT

Learning Beyond the Classroom

The planned platform extends English study beyond scheduled classes. Students can practise on their own schedule, while instructors and administrators can follow progress over time.

PLANNED LEARNING FEATURES

AI-assisted conversation practice
Guided speaking practice, with feedback designed to build confidence.

Pronunciation and speaking
Speaking exercises organised by CEFR level.

Listening and reading
Comprehension exercises that grow in difficulty with each level.

Writing activities and feedback
Structured writing tasks with feedback on each submission.

Vocabulary and grammar reinforcement
Repeated practice that supports lessons already taught.

Progress tracking and readiness checks
Unit assessments and checks that show readiness for the next level.

Digital workbooks and practice materials are included in the planned offering.

PLANNED INSTITUTIONAL FUNCTIONS

Progress monitoring and administrative tools for institutions are part of the platform roadmap. These are planned capabilities and will be introduced as development progresses.

A Pathway Toward Independent Certification

Vanguard English Academy is exploring pathways to independent English proficiency assessments and externally issued certificates through established assessment providers. Availability will depend on future agreements and examination requirements.

LEARN → PRACTICE → COMPLETE COURSE → ASSESS READINESS → TAKE INDEPENDENT EXAMINATION

Results and certificates are issued by the independent examination provider, if eligible. Vanguard English Academy does not administer or grade external examinations.

Development status: the platform is under development. AI features, institutional dashboards, and external assessment integrations are planned and not yet operational.

05 INSTITUTIONAL BENEFITS

Built Around the Needs of Your Institution

Faculty flexibility

Teach with your own instructors, or let students study independently.

Affordable programme access

Pricing aims to make English learning technology accessible to universities and training institutions.

Reduced curriculum development burden

Adopt a structured curriculum rather than building every lesson and workbook internally.

Supplemental student support

Students reinforce classroom learning through self-paced lessons and practice.

Scalable delivery

Potentially expand access without a matching expansion of physical classroom space.

Pilot programmes

Begin with a department-level pilot before any wider deployment.

Institutional reporting and progress monitoring are planned capabilities.

SEPARATE TEACHER DEVELOPMENT PRODUCT

Supporting English Learners and Future English Teachers

Through two distinct educational offerings, Vanguard Prairie Group aims to support English language development and teacher preparation. Vanguard English Academy focuses on English proficiency, while Vanguard TEFL provides a separate online teacher-training pathway.

Vanguard TEFL

An existing, self-paced online teacher-training platform for aspiring English teachers. Its core programme is a 168-hour TEFL training course, with an expanded package that adds Business English and Teaching Young Learners modules and teaching resources.

Completion of the applicable requirements earns a Vanguard TEFL course-completion certificate. This is a teacher-training certificate. It is not a government teaching licence, a university degree, or an English proficiency qualification, and it does not guarantee employment.
